Will Rogers Remarks:

BEVERLY HIBLS, Dec. 10.—[To the Editor of The Times:] When Mr. Morrow went to Mexico just two years ago every paper doubted his future, and were even fearful for his life. Now he is going to the Senate and nobody offers one word of warning. The worst that can happen in Mexico is you can be shot. But the exact day of your passing from public life is known to all. But in the Senate (if you are not lucky) you are continually passing to the cemetery with not even your own family knowing the exact date of your demise. Of course, I can understand his alibi will be "It was either return to Wall street."

MONROVIA, Dec. 10.—Permanently settling the cement pipe-line controversy preliminary to the improvement of Duarte Road, the City Council has accepted an agreement with the Pioneer Nursery and coowners of a water pipe-lin whereby the city will purchase rights to water served by the pipe for a consideration of $750, according to City Clerk Frank Dupar.

At the time plans for improving Duarte Road were almost completed, it was disclosed that this line, running parallel and south to the street, must be replaced and removed in order to widen the street to the required thirty-five feet in that section.

Following several conferences with owners of the pipe, the Council agreed to purchase the rights to the water for $750. A deed to the pipe line, a waiver of all rights to the water and an agreement for the purchase have been accepted by the Council.

According to Dupar, the Duarte Road Improvement Association has taken action agreeing to a narrow width of twenty-eight feet, east of Myrtle avenue, if necessary.

at Biltmore

The trinkets which adorn the modern woman had their origin in tiger claws, according to Nina Mac McKinney, heroine of "Hallelujah," which starts a popular engagement at the Criterion Saturday.

"Tiger claws were worn by the women of the African natives from the time before history began," she says. "It was to celebrate the victory of the men over their then common enemy, the tiger."

Miss McKinney was formerly in the chorus of "blackbirda," a New York show. King Vidor saw her there and selected her for the leading feminine role of the picture. Her ability resulted in a five-year contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

"Maternally Yours," the new play that has its world stage premiere at the Hollywood Music Box on the 23rd inst, is based on facts, according to Clarence O'Dell Miller, who authored the comedy, together with Ole Ness. The principals in the play are named after his children, he states.

Elinore Jackson is leading woman. Others cast definitely so far are Bidney Franklin, Gavin Harris, Hal Price, Patricia Henry, Louise Lorimer and Guy Hedland.

TRAGIC STORY ON

"Chronicles of the Grey House," now showing at the Filmarte Theater, possesses a fascinating quality in its use of background with a medieval setting to filuminate the story of feudal days.

The camera has caught the mood and emotion of this period skillfully, making them stand out vividity, starkly, as the tragic story of crushed romance of the days of the barons on the lonely wind-swept moorlands is revealed upon the screen. "Chronicles of the Grey House" is a German U.F.A. production and has been voted an outstanding production by the National

JUDGE LINDSEY DISBARRED

While juvenile court jurisprudence in the United States owes much to the substantial contributions of Ben B. Lindsey, former children's judge of Denver, this hardly affects the issue on which he was disbarred by the Colorado Supreme Court. The acceptance of fees or gifts by a judge on the bench is so obviously unethical that, even where it is not forbidden by law, it can hardly be condoned. Lindsey admitted receiving $37,500 from Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes and $10,000 from Samuel Untermyer for alding Mrs. Stokes in her matrimonial difficulties and, whether the amount be regarded as payment for services or a good-will donation, its acceptance offends. first important contact with blind people.

He found that life for most of them was very drab. The State library would supply books in Braille, for those who could read it, but they were sad old books. There was no way for them to keep up with what was going on just then. Miss Katherine Morrison, State teacher for the blind here, had discovered the same thing. Bo Chase started his weekly parties for the blind, in which they parties for the blind, in which they are entertained, joked, read the latest news of art, music, politics, drama, the latest prize stories and prize books—even the scandalous ones. And the poor blind folks, who had never been allowed to read anything like that in Braille, found it wonderful. A little scandal now and then is relished by the blindest men.

THE SPY

By James J. Montague
The owl in the elm tree yesterday
Was crying: "You-You! You-You"!
As he watched the little boy run away,
Which children should never do.
And he didn't believe the little boy's tale
That he only was taking a letter to mail
And came back straight
Through the garden gate
As his mother had told him to.

The owl was up in the oak last night And nothing at all he said, When the little boy didn't put out it

It was the group Chase gathered and the friends of that group who went into effect last August. One provides a maximum pension of $56 a month, $25 to be paid by the State and $25 by the county, for blind people who are needy. The other appropriated $50,000 for a shop in which the blind will be taught, aided by other handicapped people. The shop now is being built at 1240 West Pico and will be opened this month. With shops in which the able-bodied blind can be instructed and their wares marketed, and with pensions, and with the Saturday sill be completed. Having expended some $5,000,000 in the interest of aviation in the past three years, the directors of the fund are convinced that flying has outgrown the need for any such help and that the further development of the industry is assured.

Aviation has not in one sense needed any artificial stimulus for its development, but there is no question that the Guggenheim Fund accelerated the somewhat slow pace at which it was making headway in this country as compared with its progress in Europe. Taking quick advantage of the flights of Lindbergh and Byrd in making America air-conacious, the fund gave them financial aid for further flights, formed and endowed a number of aeronautical schools throughout the country and in every possible way promoted those developments in aviation which would lead to placing commercial flying on a sound and profitable basis.

During the past year the fund has concentrated its energies on increasing the safety factor in aeronautics. The fog-flying experiments of Lieut. James H. Doollitle mark one of its greatest successes, but no less important is the present "loolproof airplane" contest which may point the way to the plane of the future. It will be long before this phase of the fund's work can show results comparable to those produced by its efforts to stimulate public interest in flying, but the airplane industry, with the impetus it has already received, should be able to carry on the safety experiments on its own initiative and with its own resources.

The Guggenheim Fund may close its books with the satisfaction of work well done. It has succeeded in making itself unnecessary and for an undertaking of that sort this is the highest possible praise.

STILL BURNING

The owl was up in the birch last week,
His gaze on the pane was bent.
A chuckle came out of his gaping beak,
For he knows where those cookies went!
And when he shrieked in the dead of night,
Somebody shuddered in stark affright,
For somebody heard
The sinister bird,
And knew just what he meant. (New York World; We have pointed out before, if memory serves, that in this era of flux, with the Waldorf-Astoria gone and the world's tallest building going up in its place, and the streets building going up in its place, and the streets so temporary that practically all of them have become boardwalks, and the stocks nothing like what they used to be, and the shows closing up so fast that you can hardly keep track of them—that in this dizzy time about the only thing which really affords New York a bond with its past is the fire on the Riker's Island dump. Here, say what you will, is something solid and substantial, something which pursues its even course while all else is changing, something you can visit and be sure that it will be ther? without having been removed since the last time you saw it. It has been burning for fifteen years now, and in New York fifteen years is equivalent to 1263 years in Rome and easily 2500 in London. Bo we are gratified to learn, through an item in the Sun, that the fire on the Riker's Island dump is still burning. In one place, at least, the city has a centinuous tradition. Ord bless the Riker's Island dump! May its free be an eternal reminder of a spot on the map that once was known as New York. The owl is hidden away today
In his home in the distant dell
Where the trees are mossy and grim and gray
And the scampering chipmunks dwell.
He sits and stares at the frozen ground,
And doesn't utter a single sound;
He's as mute and mum
As the deaf and dumb;
But gee! if he'd ever tell!

tablishment of a cement plant in the Santa Monica hills is not readily expressed in words.

We are apt to feel that the element we cannot see is not dangerous. No matter how modern the plant, the impalpable dust that hangs in the air and is blown about will smother all the leaves in the vicinity and make a place of desolation.

Those of us who have mined in the quartz mines, know the danger of a dust that cuts like powdered emery. When the dynamite is exploded it not only breaks the rock but at the same time fills the air with dust particles almost as light as air and hard to wash out of the air even with water. This dust remains in the tunnel or the shafts and when breathed into the lungs has a cutting effect.

We term it miners' consumption, but it induces the same distressing condition that comes from diamond polishing or any craft or work where a cutting should be so reminded.

If the taxpayers are kind enough to inform our Water Commissioners, through the columns of our good editors, they should at once send inspectors and investigators to personally visit these places mentioned in the papers.

"And somebody ought to teach you how to talk," was my weak rejoinder as he shot over the track not more than fifty yards ahead of the locomotive.

This sort of thing happens every day. Something like it happened on the Lakeland Road recently, when a young driver's temerity cost him his life and that of his five companions. It was the same sort of foolhardiness that landed a man I know in a local hospital with half a dozen fractures and sent his wife and little daughter to the cometery.

wife and little daughter to the cemetery.

Being a patient in the same hospital I used to see this muchinjured man quite often. He had little to say about the "accident," which really was nothing of the kind, for the term doesn't fit such a case. He had tried to beat a train to a crossing near Burbank and was nearly killed in the crash that burled his wife and child into eternity. All I heard him say about it was his wife and child into eternity.
All I heard him say about it was that he wished he might have died with them.
That man's ghastly face still haunts me. I wish that such a face might haunt all these drivers who are tempted to take desperate chances at crossings

Big Bear Lake, one of Southern California's delightful year-round resorts, is looking forward again this winter to the exhilirating seasonal sports to be found in a moun-tain vacation land of that type. Al-though the winter has been back-ward and the rain in the Southland and the consequent snow in the mountains is late this year, Big Bear Lake resort owners and man-

Bear Lake resort owners and managers predict a heavy rain and snowfall during the latter part of the winter and in the spring.

The lake is located just 100 miles from Los Angeles in the San Bermardino Mountains, at an elevation of 7000 feet and offers a paradise for the mountain lover and for the enthusiast, who is desirous of experiencing the delights of the mountains in the winter-mouths. During the last few years the fall of rain and snow at the lake has been comparatively light, which, according to the mountain folks, should indicate a fairly heavy fall this season. The lake is an artificial one, formed primarily for water conservation and also to provide bathing and boating and other kindred sports in the summer and skating in the winter to patrons of the numerous reserts and hotels

WINTER ROUTES

There are a number of routes used in traveling to Big Bear Lake in summer with two of them kept in good shape and open throughout the winter period. The shortest winter route is via San Bernardino, Patton, and on up the City Creek grade, widened and improved a short while ago, right into the heart of the San Bernardino Range. This route offers 100 miles of interestite lake. The longer winter route is via San Bernardino, the Cajon Pass, Victorville and what is otherwise known as the desert road, making a trip over this route approximately 150 miles in distance from Los Angeles. This is an exceptionally scenie trip in winter and spring as at that time the desert is ever alluring, making thereby a combination of winter in the mountains and desert at its most enjoyable time.

Luxurious Accommodations Provided at Resort

Nestling in the hills north of San Jacinto, Soboba Hot Springs is rich in history and filled with the glam-our of early California days, when green plains and came to rest and bathe at these springs of natural healthfulness. Many are the tales and legends based upon what they believed the almost miraculous healing powers of the waters, and it is here that Ramona, Alessandro and their ancestors went for health and relief.

tis here that Ramona, Alessandro and their ancestors went for health and relief.

Some of the most unique and luxurious guest accommodations ever provided by any resort are found in the lodges of the new Indian village. Like a scene from some fantasy of long ago, they stand, colorful tiles and pottery gleaming in the sunlight and soft shadows playing about the walls. The Indian motif is carried out appropriately in the walls, curtains, hand wrought lamp shades and fixtures, while the modern conveniences, steam heat, electric lights, hot and cold running water and private showers are provided.

Soboba leaves the impression of peace, charm and quiet hospitality and a stay here will leave one mentally and physically refreshed.

Many Attracted to Hot Springs

Each year sees an increase in the popularity and renown of Southern California's many excellent hot springs. As all year round attractions they have no equals, but it is during the winter season that their lure is most far reaching and visitors from all quarters of the globe flock to partake of their benefits and enjoy their cures.

So ideally located are the majority of these springs that they also are famous as rest and recreation centers and resorts as well as for the curative properties of their waters. Such diversity is represented that one may choose the most attractive spot to enjoy a vacation and be almost sure of finding at the same time whatever type of water or health treatment may be needed or desired. Nor is such a course necessarily expensive for one may choose a rustic recort or the most elaborate and feel sure of finding them comfortable, hospitable

But, in spite of everything newfangled in the way of toys, boys and girls do remain much the same, and the most satisfactory toys for long use are the old stand-bysblocks, building sets of all kinds, dolls and everything that goes to make up the doll'household. And when you are buying for that doll household remember that there is no easier way for sister to learn to sew than to be encouraged with a sewing set and some material and patterns for doll clothes. Adults may get a lot of satisfaction out of dressing dolls elaborately, but children get a far greater satisfaction in outfitting their own "bables," not to mention excellent sewing experience.

There is no doubt but that the elaborate mechanical toy which runs with little or no help from its small owner may be a novelty and delight for a few hours, but the toy

Attention amounting almost to excitement is being paid to plans for the selection of a prominent member to fill the office, discussion of possible nominees, and they are many.

NEW ISLANDS VISITED

"We left San Francisco in 1920 with our own vessel," Beck said. "and our wanderings have taken us, very probably, to more islands of the South Pacific than have been visited by any one person before. Many of the islands never had been touched by human foot. We went first to the Society Islands, then on to the Marquesas, Australs and the Tuamotu Archipeisgo. From there we worked to the Samoan and Phoenis groups, then to Piji. Tongs. New Hebrides, the Reef and Solomon Islands and finally finished up in New Guines.

RECORD FOOTBALL CROWDS

California in a ten-game schedule played before an approximate attendance of 436,534 persons.
Stanford in an eleven-game schedule, which winds up with the Army game at Palo Alto the 28th inst., will have played before an approximate attendance of 450,000.

Notre Dame in nine games—all of them away from home—played football before 606,000 persons.

Southern California, when it concludes its unusually long season with Pitt on January 1—the twelfth game—probably will have played to over 600,000 persons.

The total will depend on the turnout for the Carnegle Tech contest this coming Saturday. The New Year's Day game is a virtual sellout already.

Southern California's high spot of the season, also Notre Dame's, was the record crowd of 120,000 which saw the two teams play their spectacular 13-12 game at Soldier Field last month. The Stanford game at Palo Alto was a sellout—89,000 persons—and so was the California game here with 76,000 in the stands. The January 1 game will be a sellout of 65,000 and Carnegie Tech and the Trojans likely will draw about 65,000 Saturday.

Stanford had two sellout crowds at home this year—stanford had tw and Carnegie Tech and the Frojans intery will draw about 65,000 Saturday.

Stanford had two sellout crowds at home this year—Southern California and California—and the Army game means another capacity crowd of 89,000.

California's leading crowds were seen at the St. Mary's game, 69,917; Pennsylvania in the East, 71,000; Southern California, 76,000, here, and Stanford, 89,000, at Palo Alto.

Notre Dame, however, shows the best drawing record in the country with 70,000 persons or more at six games—Navy, 75,000; Wisconsin, 74,000; Carnegie Tech, 70,000; Drake, 76,000; Southern California, 120,000; Army, 85,000.

Notre Dame's record probably will stand for years because the Ramblers play some of their games at home next year in the new Cartier Field Stadium, and South Bend is not a drawing center of population like Chicago, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, New York, etc.

st Central Police Station, and alter being booked was released on 4500 hall.

Detective Lieutenants James and Leelle obtained a warrant for Dr. Threadgill from the City Prosecutor, which was signed by Municipal Judge Lahey. The warrant charges the physician with violation of Ordinance No. 19985, which obligates doctors to report promptly or within twenty four hours any person treated by them for gunshot wounds. The detectives say that Dr. Threadgill treated Jerke at 3 am. Bunday and that they did not learn of it until Monday afternoon. According to the detectives, Dr. Threadgill said that Jerke was brought to him by Frank Grinsky of 1948 Barrington Road, who said the wounded man was a brother-inlaw, injured in a domestic row. He asked the doctor to give the matter no publicity, and Dr. Threadgill agreed, the detectives report he admit. Later, when he read of the hold-ups, he nottified police.

Jerke was arrested Monday and yesterday Dep. Dist. Atty. Richardson issued a complaint charging him with four counts of robbery. Jerke is in the prison ward at the General Hospital with a bullet wound in the head. Police assert he received this wound while fleeing after being surprised in the act of holding up a service station at Mel-rose Boulevard and Gardner avenue.
